

THE NAMIC LEADERSHIP SEMINAR

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR MULT-ETHNICITY IN COMMUNICATIONS
EMBRACE DIVERSITY. EMBRACE SUCCESS.

ABOUT THE NAMIC LEADERSHIP SEMINAR

The NAMIC Leadership Seminar is a professional development program created specifically to transform high-potential employees into strong leaders.

During three days of lively discussion and exchange of ideas, participants will go on a journey of individual development and exploration of what it takes to be an effective contributor to team and organizational outcomes.

The highly interactive instructional methodology sets the stage for professionals to obtain the knowledge, competencies, and diverse perspectives necessary for maximum performance and career enhancement.

All talented coordinators, supervisors, managers, and new directors (less than two years at that level) from across the cable telecommunication industry's multicultural spectrum are encouraged to apply.

"The NAMIC Leadership Seminar was a great experience. I was able to pause and consider my career through a completely different lens and, even more important, I was shown the tools of shifting into a higher gear of bringing my best self to my current role and relationships at work. What I learned in those three days will be a guide and a constant reminder of my capacity to grow."

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Continuous learning and leadership development are important for all professionals — those in the early stages of career management and those who have some work experience under their belt. The NAMIC Leadership Seminar curriculum draws upon the most respected academic research about what it takes to develop into impactful leaders in organizations where a high premium is placed on Diversity and Inclusion as a strategic business imperative.

The faculty—subject matter, experts, authors, and lecturers from prestigious academic institutions—lead robust conversations and exercises to help participants accomplish the following:

- Explore professional strengths and performance-related developmental gaps
- Chart a course to enhance individual leadership potential
- Master techniques for giving and receiving motivating feedback
- Become familiar with the tools for effective problem solving, conflict resolution, and decision-making in a diverse environment
- Understand and practice the skills involved in managing UP
- Appreciate the concept of Diversity and Inclusion as a core organizational value, and not just a human resources-driven tactic
- Create a template for career management

The program is designed to help participants maximize strengths, develop new self-management insights, raise the bar on performance in current roles, and plan courageously and strategically for continuous growth and advancement.

“To say that the NAMIC faculty exceeded my expectations is an understatement. Not only did I find the content fascinating, but the quality of the speakers, and their genuine enthusiasm were equally impressive. Finally, it is worth noting that I have attended many seminars in the past, but this one generated a sense of connection to the other attendees that one does not generally find. And I look forward to staying connected to this network in the future.”

CURRICULUM

The NAMIC Leadership Seminar curriculum covers the following topics, supplemented by outside readings and hands-on exercises:

Leadership Theory and Styles

Gaining insight into individual leadership styles and learning how to “flex” for maximum effectiveness in achieving individual, team, and organizational objectives

Maximizing Individual Contribution on Diverse Teams

Getting the most out of participation on a team that is rich in diverse cultural perspectives and worldviews

Dealing With Conflict

Examining the root causes of conflict within the organization, learning how to distinguish between “good conflict” and “bad conflict,” and gaining insight into constructive vs. destructive responses to conflict

Nurturing a Healthy Relationship With Power

Establishing a healthy relationship with organizational power, as leaders as well as followers

Mentoring and Networking

Exploring how to establish and nurture a mutually rich and rewarding mentoring relationship. Building and strengthening a developmental network that broadens access to information, influence, and career advice

Careers by Design

Taking a hard look at professional goals and beginning the important work of drafting a success credo linked to a career by design, and not by default

Action Planning

Creating a personal blueprint for applying the new knowledge, and committing to an implementation timeline

“The NAMIC Leadership Seminar was 3 days packed full of career enlightening information. It felt like I was back in school with the rigor of preparation that was expected of me. The seminar has amazing, talented, and experienced experts who do an amazing job of summarizing the most important topics. The wealth of information I received will define and inform my career for years to come. And let’s not forget the network that I forged during those 3 days with like-minded industry professionals!”
