

Strategic Management Series

Embark on a transformative learning journey with NAMIC's Strategic Management Series, presented in partnership with the University of Virginia-Darden School of Business. Tailored specifically for leaders in the media, entertainment, and technology sectors, this comprehensive seven-month program consists of three parts. Through a blend of asynchronous and synchronous learning, participants delve into strategy analysis, growth strategy, and strategy planning, equipping them to become effective architects of impactful growth and success.

Who should attend:

- Professionals collaborating with C-Suite leaders and their teams.
- Key decision-makers who seek to enhance their strategic planning competencies.
- Leaders entrusted with driving growth within their organizations.
- Experienced professionals with a minimum of seven years' expertise in strategy development and execution.
- Directors, Senior Directors, or Vice Presidents seeking strategic excellence.

Learn more and register at

<https://namic.com/professional-development/strategic-management-series/>

